Forecast For West Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Sunday 10 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Mostly dry night with some clear spells.

This Evening and Tonight:
Remaining fairly cloudy but mainly dry as we head through the evening and overnight. A few clear spells developing at times. Less cold than previous nights but still with a risk of a rural frost developing in places. Minimum temperature 1 deg C (34 deg F).

Monday:
Mostly dry on Monday morning with a few bright spells, but turning cloudy with outbreaks of rain, heavy at times, arriving from the northwest during the afternoon. Breezy but milder. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Dry and colder on Tuesday, with sunshine and lighter winds. Cloudy with outbreaks of rain on Wednesday and feeling milder. Turning drier on Thursday with sunny spells.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.